

Week 10 — Continuing My Fit4Life Journey

Choosing What You Want to Carry Forward

The end of the 10-week program is an opportunity to recognize what you built and decide what you want to continue. You do not need to carry forward every exercise, practice, or plan.

This Week's Wellness Connection

Consider which wellness influences you want to continue noticing. Hydration, sleep, nourishment, stress, recovery, health, movement, and daily responsibilities will continue to interact as your journey moves forward.

Looking Ahead

Review your Weekly Journeys, Class Records, Exercise Pages, and Real-Life Focus. Consider:

- What you learned about yourself
- What progress you recognize
- What supports you
- What you want to continue
- What you may adjust
- What direction feels right now

This Week's Practice Focus

Choose one fitness practice, one wellness practice, or one everyday-life connection you want to carry forward.

What I have learned gives me direction for what comes next.

My Week 10 Guide

What to Notice and Where to Record It

Use this guide with the facing My Week 2 Journey page. Each number points to the place where you will record what stands out.

1 — Return to My Real-Life Focus

Think about the everyday activity or experience you chose. Consider what a manageable challenge might feel like within that activity.

Record it in Section 1.

2 — Notice Across My Classes

Notice how movement options, resistance, pace, support, and recovery affect your experience.

Use your class cards, then record what stands out in Section 2.

3 — Consider My Wellness Connection

Think about what may have influenced how challenging an activity felt this week.

Record what stands out in Section 3.

4 — Connect It to Everyday Life

Notice where changing your pace, effort, option, or support helped you participate in everyday life.

Record the connection in Section 4.

5 — Pause and Reflect

Consider what you discovered about choosing a challenge that fits you.

Complete Section 5.
